THE TIME FOR DEALERS TO lay in their Fall and Winter stock of Clothing is close at hand, and the aim of every one being to buy in the best and cheapest market, the undersigned deem it a duty due to the trading community and to themselves to draw attention to their PIONEER CLOTHING ESTABLISHMENT,

PIONEER CHOTHING ESTABLISHMENT,

(WHOLESALE OSLY),

Northwest corner of Main and Fifth streets.

They have profited by the dull times of the past months; pasking up and laying in a stock of Clothing suitable for the approaching season, such as cannot be competed with by any other house in their line.

The stock consists of every variety of Garments, from the Shanghai of the man of fashion to the rough Blanket Coat of the digger of the soil, with full suits to match. match.
All they ask is an investigation of their goods. They are determined to convince the most skeptical that their stock is the stock of the season. A general invitation is here.

ANOTHER OF THE SOLDIERS OF THE REVOLUTION GONE.—Died, at his residence in Winchendon, Massachusetts, Seth Tucker, Esq., aged 98 years. Mr. Tucker was born in Milton, and removed to Winchendon in 1778, and was one of the earliest settlers of that town. He joined the American army at an early period, and was on duty in the vicinity of Boston, and afterwards in the State of New York.

A Remarkable Man.

Maddson, Dec. 3, 1855.

Messrs. Editors: Having, during the last ten years, heard the history of Mr. David Wilson, who formerly resided at Carrollton, Ky., repeated frequently, and which seemed to be fabulous, or which, at least, taxed my credulity very much, and happening, a few days ago, to meet with Mr. Alexander Wilson, of North Madison, with whom DUMESNIL, BELL & CO., Agents,

Our love had never been cangent girl, with a countenance asclear as the light of the morning, and eyes as softly blue as the summer sky. As such she passed into my boyish heart—its graceful image of First Love—the pure scraph that changed with maturer years as the light of the morning, and eyes as softly blue as the ligh years, and during his lifetime had five wives. By his first wife he had eighteen children. A few years before he died he expressed a desire to remove to Indiana, but was opposed by his fifth and last wife. He, however, took a trip to see if he could find a new location to suit him, and when he returned home he found that his wife had packed up some of the goods and chattels and returned to her friends in Kontucky. He went after her and endeavored to persuade her to return to his house; but she would not go. In a short time, however, she relented, and then wished to return to his house; but he would have nothing to do with house; but he would have nothing to do with her—and so they remained separated to his her—and so they remained separated to his death. Very few of his children died in their infancy and youth; and there are now thirty-five of them living, who are all men and women full grown. David Wilson was a man of pure good health, and robust physical constitution. At the age of one hundred and five years he could mow an acrea day for a week at a time without evincing much fatigue. He appeared to have not a ribb. The whole region of his breast was shielded by a plate of solid bone, and he could receive the most plate of solid bone, and he could receive the most plate of solid bone, and he could receive the most plate of solid bone, and he could receive the most plate of solid bone, and he could receive the most plate of solid bone, and he could receive the most plate of solid bone, and he could receive the most plate of solid bone, and he could receive the most plate of solid bone, and he could receive the most plate of solid bone, and he could receive the most plate of solid bone, and he could receive the most plate of solid bone, and he could receive the most plate of solid bone, and he could receive the most plate of solid bone, and he could receive the most plate of solid bone, and he could receive the most plate of solid bone, and he could receive the most plate of solid bone. severe and powerful blows upon it without being hurt. He frequently, for the gratification of others, suffered them to strike him most violently in ers, suffered hem to strike him most violently in the breast without being made to feel, in the least, uncomfortable. During our border wars he was taken prisoner by the Indians, and they attempted to stab him in the breast, but found the solid bone impenetrable. His minute history would be in-teresting if collected and published. He was one of the most remarkable men that ever lived in teresting if collected and published. He was one of the most remarkable men that ever lived in America. His progeny was very numerous, and he attained a green old age. At the age of one hundred and seven years, when he died, none of his faculties of mind or body were materially impaired.

Said my daughter, Pinky Winky, Pinky Winky young and tender, With a cheek as red as roses, With a lip like a ripe cherry: Father, dearest father, tell me

What it's best to have for breakfast? Said I, darling Pinky Winky,

Proud it makes my heart paternal
To perceive this thirst for knowledge;
Such a laudable inquiry
Should be answered, who can doubt it?
Therefore, dearest Pinky Winky, Since you ask nae I will answer,
I will answer, I will tell you.

I will answer, I will tell you,

To be eaten but with mustar

Mustard which is hot and fiery, And is apt to burn the gullet.

Then, renewing the inquiry: Father, dearest father, tell me, Tell your fond, devoted daughter, What it's best to have for breakfast?

Said I, with a deep emotion, While my heart o'erflowed with kindne Dearest Little Pinky Winky, While my heart o'erflowed with kindned Dearest Little Pinky Winky, Since you ask me I will answer, I will answer, I will answer, I will answer, I will tell you, It will probably be Sausage. At this answer, Pinky Winky Turned her little saucy nose up, Saying pertly, smartly, tartly: Sausage, sausage, always sausage—I am tired to death of sausage—Sausages are fat and greasy, Sometimes made, 'tis said, of pupples; Pupples juvenile and tender, Which come to their end untimely. No, my venerable father, If you love your Pinky Winky, Don't by any means have sausage! Then again, my Pinky Winky, Don't by any means have sausage! Then again, my Pinky Winky, Saked, with question pertinacious: Father, dearest father, tell me, Tell your fond and loving daughter. What it's best to have for breakfast? Now I felt my anger rising, And a rising of my dander; Said I, with some irritation: Since you persevere in asking, Pinky Winky, Pinky Winky, I will answer, I will tell you—Said I, in a voice emphatic, Which can only be compared To the sound of raging whirlwind, When it scatters wide destruction; Or the sound of mighty waters At the cataract of Niagara; Or the sound of booming cannon, Spreading widely death and carnage; Or the braying of the trumpet, Urging on the charging squadron; Or the neighing of the war-horse, As he rushes to the battle. Said I, in a voice emphatic: Then it must be buckwheat paneakes!

As he rusnes to the battle.
Said I, in a voice emphatic:
Then it must be buckwheat paneakes!
As a fair and blighted lily
Droops beneath the fervid sunbeam;
As the grass, oppressed with moisture,
Droops with weight of pearly dew drops,
Drooped the head of Pinky Winky;
While her tears in gushing torrents
Fell in puddles on the table;
Deep her bosom heaved with anguish,
Sadly in a voice of sorrow,
And of tender melancholy,
Sad she murmured—buckwheat paneakes!
O, my gracious—buckwheat paneakes!
G.

Possibly it may be Liver.
At this only bare suggestion,
Pinky Winky slightly shuddered,
Saying with some hesitation,
Liver is the food for paupers,
The bare but with pursued.

Gradually—I know not why—my affection for the parents seemed to centre in the little girl. A strange and mystic tenderness toward her took possession of me. Thus it continued for a long period. At last, an event occurred which, for a time, seemed to have utterly divorced this mysterious feeling from me. The circumstances of that event led me to another city, and terminated in my event led me to another city, and terminated in my marriage.

My wife died a year after our union. A slight cold that she had contracted resulted in a virulent scarlet fayer, attended with inflammation; and although every medical attention was paid her, she died, and died in the night, suddenly. All the circumstances of her death were tragical. I cannot recall them now without horror. From the moment she died until the body was removed, the house was filled with an overpowering oder of camphor. I do not know what it meant. I was too much stricken to direct any details; but from that moment the smell of camphor became intolerable to me, so closely and terribly was it associated with my fearful calamity.

It was an appalling blow. I shut myself up for of her mother's gentle beauty, and the mother's soul shone strangely from her soft, dark eyes. So—I used to think—as time takes away the bloom of her youthful loveliness, it will be but to bestow it, with added graces, on her child.

with my fearful calamity.

It was an appalling blow. I shut myself up for weeks, and saw no one. I was stunned with grief. But I recovered soon, for my hour of sorrow had not yet come. The wound closed, it was to open again, in anguish, hereafter. The quick stroke had paralyzed me. Consciousness was to come slowly wish other years, and agony and the blackness of paritual darkness were to follow.

Before we months had alapsed mybewilderment, my stolid s. Trow, passed into a feeling of restlessness. I gave up my house and went from Philadelphia, where all this had happened, to New York city, where I had rejatives. As I began to resume a cheerfulness, which was but the palid ghost of my former tone of mind, a desire to see my friends again stirred within me. The same mysterious feeling for the child; the weird attraction to her, returned with tenfold force. I obeyed it. I went to Boston.

to Boston.

This was the period mentioned in the commencement of my narrative as that in which I renewed my intimacy with the Barrys. It is marked by the incident which I am now to record, and which is impressed on my mind with mountful distinctness. I remember it as one might remember the shadow of a cloud which passed over him at noonday, before some terrible calamity befell him, and which remains in his memory forever as the precursor of his disaster.

day, before some terrible calamity befell him, and which remains in his memory forever as the precursor of his disaster.

One summer day I was at Barry's house. It was the little girl's seventh birthday. She was sitting on my knee, with her dark tresses lying loosely on my arm, and her soft, 'earnest eyes looking into mine. Mrs. Barry sat at the piano, playing, as she conversed, a lively tune that rippled and tinkled airily from the keys. Her husband was carelessly reclining in a cushioned chair near her, beating time with his fingers on the cover of a book. We had been chatting gayly for some time—the pleasant tune, and the singing of a canary bird in a gilded cage by the window, trilling brilliantly in our light and mirthful talk—when our conversation paused, and a sudden silence, so common and so strange, succeeded. As if that silence was ordained that it might flash upon my brain—clear and strange as if an unearthly voice had spoken it—a singular thought, lighting up a wide range of recollections, revealed them to me, bathed in the wild colors of fatality. I cannot determine how these instantaneous mental transitions, which seem to know no intermediate process, are effected. Some bold metaphysicians have thought that there are ideas which are resolved in the mind by mental processes so subtle that they escape cognizance. It may be that this thought, which burst up like a colorless flame, irradiating things long known to me with the pallid tints of supernaturalism, was the residium left by such mental chemistry. I happened to think that my friends had been each only children, and orphans from their infancy! And then the darkness was lifted from the long waste of memory—I remembered more!

> THEORY OF THE ASTEROIDS .- Prof. Alexander of Princeton, has recently prepared a paper on the subject of the asteroids, which is ingenious. Having a great velocity on its axis it burst, as some grinding stones do, and its fragments formed the asteroids. This theory of the asteroids is brought into support that of the Plutonists and nebular hypothesis.

Nece sames of Life. Flour. Whisky, and Tobacco have long been regarded the necessaries of life—but it is a mistake. We can't buy Flour—that is, Daguerreotypists can 't—for it is too dear; the temperance men wont let us drink Whisky, and the Tobacco crop is a failure. What we can't get it is plain we must do without, and what we can do without is not a necessary. The proverb, then, is a falsehood. But one of HARRIS'S Dagurreotypes-bright, sparkling, rich, bold, and clear-which we can get and cannot do without-that is a necessary of life. no28

Eighth: Richardson, 75; Campbell, 51; Banks, 32; Fuller, 20; Marshall, 18; Ninth: Richardson, 75; Campbell, 51; Banks, 31; Fuller, 21; Marshall, 16. Still no choice. The House, on motion, adjourned.

The Memphis Catastrophe.

CAIRO, December 4. The fire originated on the steamer Geo. Collier, hence it communicated to the Mayflower. The Mayflower was valued at one hundred tho dollars; insured for fifty thousand. The Collier was valued at thirty-five thousand dollars; insured for fifteen thousand. The wharf boat was also burned, containing twenty thousand dollars worth of goods; total loss. Fifteen persons are missing, who are supposed to be lost.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3. There is a good deal of caucusing going on tonight. It is generally understood that the Black Republicans and Freesoilers will concentrate tomorrow on Mr. Banks, of Massachusetts, numbering together 128, and being sufficient to elect.
The caucus of Southern Know-Nothings and National Democrats and Whigs, numbering seventy-three, resolved to reject all fusion with the Freesoil factions, but have no hopes of defeating them.

bem. Greeley, Weed, and Seward have been working all day to fuse the factions, and are understood to have succeeded. We may, therefore, look for an organization to-morrow, and the message on Wed-DOGS AND GOATS esday.

National Americans will vote for Henry M. Fuller for Speaker, and endeavor to draw the entire Democratic vote to him by conceding to them the Clerk and Printer; thus forming a Union party against the Freesoil factions. They deny that the And whose success throughout the principal of the United States has been unprecedented in the sof amusements—will make their first appearance city, in a series of their serie conte, melo-dramati pantomimic representations, together with scenes sizele or circus performances, on Republicans can, by a fusion, poll more than 105 votes, while 113 is necessary to elect.

The President persists in refusing to print the essage; and it will be sent to the two Houses in writing.

The dispatches received by the Atlantic represent our affairs with England unchanged since the departure of the Canada. Mr. Buchanan says that Lord Clarendon, and the British Cabinet, are endeavoring to patch up a reply to our government communication, with reference to the violation of our neutrality laws by British agents, in order if possible to wound our sensitiveness and at the same time shield Mr. Crampton.

Our government has finally acted on the men rial of Denmark, proposing capitulation or tax according to the value of the cargo, in lieu of the present sound dues, and rejected the proposition.
The National Intelligencer confirms the reports received from Kansas. The dispatch from Gov.
Shannon was received by President Pierce yesterday. It stated that civil war was threatened, and requested prompt assistance. The immediate transfer of troops from all the nearest posts was transmitted by telegraph by the President.

Indeed, very few are the diseases in which a purgative medicine is not more or less required, and much sickness and suffering might be prevented if a harmless but effectual Cathartic were more freely used. No person can feel well while a costive habit of body prevails; besides, it soon generates serious and often fatal diseases, which might have been avoided by the timely and judicious use of a good purgative. This is alike true of colos, feverish symptoms, and bilious derangements. They all tend to become or produce the deep seated and formidable distempers which load the hearses all over the land. Hence, a reliable family physic is of the first importance to the public health, and this Fill has been perfected with consummate skill to meet that demand. An extensive trial of its virtues by physicians, professors, and patients, has shown results surpassing anything hitherto known of any medicine. Cures have been effected beyond belief, were they not substantiated by persons of such exatted position and character as to forbid the suspicion of untruth.

Among the many eminent gentlemen who havetestitified in favor of these Fills we may mention:

concern on the Istday of January next, we propose from this date to ofter our entire stock of Dry Goods at cest for cash. In our stock may be found some of the most elegant goods imported, comprising all the latest styles and newest fabrics, together with a large assortment of Domestic Goods. We invite the particular attention of the public to the following: WHICH HAVE A COMMON ORIGIN IN MALARIA OR MIASMA. THESE DISEASES ARE COMMON THESE DISEASES ARE COMMON to many localities of the United States; but wherever they prevail, North, South, East, or West, they all equally spring from the same miasmal cause. The great variety of symptoms and forms of disease, is owing principally to difference in age, sex, constitution, and habits of the sufferer; but as the cause is the same, they will all equally yield to a remedy that is competent to overcome or remove that cause.

By the laws of nature, every principle has its opposite, and for every disease, or cause of disease, there is a reagent, or, in other words, a specific remedy. All Malaria, whether arising from Marshes, Stagmant Water, decomposition of annual and vegetable matter, or even newly cleared lands, is the same in character and effect; is a poison floating in the atmosphere, causing disease to all who breathe it. In accordance with those unalterable laws governing the unerring allmity subsisting between opposites, there is in the preparation before us, offered to the public,

THE NATURAL ANTIDOTE TO MALARIA, 1855. Fall Fashions. 1855.

THE NATURAL ANTIDOTE TO MALARIA, THE NATURAL ANTIDOTE TO MALARIA, Which neutralizes the poison whenever it comes in contact with it, even in the open air, and when taken internally completely purifies the system affected by it of its baneful influence, and thus restores and preserves health.

The remedy is believed to be entirely new, and unknown to any but the proprietor, who distinctly claims the following extraordinary results from its use:

It will instantly check the ague in persons who have suffered for any length of time, from ONE DAY TO TWENTY YHARS, and by continuing its use, according to the directions, a radical cure will be effected; the patient continuing free from the complaint for ever; unless subsequent exposure to malaria should make its use again INENS. 1 CASE IRISH LIN-GINGHAMS.

2 cases Lancaster Gingham;
1 case French black and white Gingham;

Which so often follow the administration of other medicines. The patient at once begins to recover appetite and strength, and continues to improve until restored to perfect health. By its use, Fever and Ague may be banished from every family and class in the community; farmers, mechanics, and all laboring people may be using this article as a

ON LY CAUTION.

In certain specified cases, pour the contents of one of more bottless of the Cure into shallow vessels (dining plates), and pisce them in sleeping rooms; for the variant department of the curative effect is present. acrossor circulated over the dregs of it, after the liquid is evaporated, will countered and destroy, to a degree commensurate with its exposure, the missistate of posson contained in the apartment. This mode of exhibiting the Cure should likewise be resorted to when very young infants are exposed to malarious situations. The bottles in which this medicine is put up have the words "Khodess' Fever and acceptance Cure" blown in the glass, and on the outside wrapper is the name of the medicine (the copyright of which is secured), and the signature of the proprietor. These precautions are adopted to prevent counterfeits and imitations.

HAD THE AGUE FOR TWELVE YEARS!!!

PROVIDENCE, June 28, 1855.

Having been informed of the lilness of a poor, butworthy woman, who has not been free from fever and Ague a month at a time for the last twelve years, I supplied her gratuitously with Rhodes fever and Ague Cure. She took in all four bottles, which completely restored her to health and strength, and as four months has now elapsed, there is no reason to doubt the permanency of the cure.

MR. J. A. RHODZS:—Please express me four dozen of your Fever and Ague Cure—send it immediately, as 1 am nearly out. It has given satisfaction.

Yourstruly,

R. W. GAMBLE.

DEAR SIR:—You wished me to write as to the health of my patient, after taking the Fever and Ague medicine you sent, which I now take pleasure in doing.

The patient was my mother. She has lived in Alleghany county, N. Y., for five years, and last fall, for the first time, had the Eever and Ague, which is not care in a short time by the use of " Yever and Ague Pilis; but last March she came here to live with me, and in May was taken again with it. She hastaken the medicine which you sent—she took the last some four weeks ago—and she seems to be cured of the disease, and her health is quite good now, but her joints and bones seem to be sore, and pain her some.

The medicine I think is very good, and I could recommend it to Ague sufferers, and I would procure it before any other within my knowledge for that disease. Yours truly, GHARLES B. RNOWLTON.

DANCING ACADEMY.

THOUS. J. P. LASSERRE RESPECTfully informs his friends, and the public in general, that he will open his Dancing School at the above Hall on SATURDAY NEXT, Sept. 29th, for hisses and masters, from 9 to 12 o'clock 1. M., and 2 to 5 r. M.
Class for gents every Monday and Wednesday evening, from 7 to 9 o'clock.

On account of objections from a great number of pupils heretofore, religious difficulties are removed by forming two classes.

J. P. L. thinks it unnecessary to mention all by Dances and Waltzes he will teach in his school. The great number of pupils he has taught in this city for the last ten years is the best recommendation ne can offer. Notwithstanding all the Fancy Dances and Waltzes J. P. L. is acquainted with, he takes pleasure in stating that on his visit to the South he has met with his friend Plingally Driks, from the Opera of Paris, and when here the principal Dancer of Placide's Varieties.
Through his kindness J. P. L. has come in possession of the most recent Dances, viz:
Gottlian-Five-Step Waltz.
Varsovien—Hungarian Redowa.
New Schottische.
Ladies and gentlemen wishing to join the class are invited to apply at the commencement.

RAILROAD!

THIS GREAT WORK OF INTER-THIS GREAT WORK OF INTERnal improvement (379 miles from Wheeling to Baltimore, and 403 to Washington,) was opened to the Ohio river in January, 1535, and has now been fully tosted and approved, both as a freight and passenger route. This road is located in a romantic country, is solidly constructed, fully equipped, and carefully managed, and is thus rendered an attractive as well as a safe line for travelers. The late completion of the Central Ohio Road, from Columbus to the Ohio river, near Wheeling, adds greatly to the importance of this route, offering, as it does, the most thorough Railroad connection with the entire West.
